Senior

Signals

College applications, government editorials, and graduating are all familiar terms associated with being a senior. But when did you realize this was "it"? . . . "I knew I was a senior when I started applying to colleges, and getting accepted," commented Laurie Hudson.

You know you're a senior when . . .

. . . you need money, and your parents tell you "GET A JOB!!"

. . . the countdown for graduation starts in September.

. . . you don't care what people think of you.

. . . you're considered a "responsible" adult, and the horror is you have to act like one.

. . . you get more junk mail than your parents.

. . . everyone asks you that common question "What are your plans after high school"

. . . you spend more time in the guidance office than you do in class.

. . . you get "spring fever" before Thanksgiving.

. . . last but not least, you actually worry about passing tests!

But just remember seniors, whatever reason it is, you're a senior and that's all that matters!!

☐ Kim Parker

